FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Wentworth Institute of Technology Selects STV|DPM For Library Renovation Project

NEWTON, MA. (November 5, 2015)—STV|DPM has been awarded the contract for the extensive renovation and improvement of the Wentworth Institute of Technology Library in Boston.

STV|DPM will assist in all aspects of the $18 million renovation effort, including management of the design, construction and building commissioning phases. In addition, STV|DPM will assist the client in assembling the project team, as well as oversee permitting, project schedule and budget, change orders, furniture, fixtures, and equipment (FF&E), move management and final closeout.

Founded in 1904, Wentworth is a leader in engineering, technology, design, and management education and is well known for its academic excellence and cooperative education (co-op) program.

Douglas D. Schumann, a Wentworth alumnus, longtime benefactor, trustee emeritus, and 2008 honorary degree recipient at the school, has given $5 million to the project. The library will be named The Douglas D. Schumann Library & Learning Commons in his honor.

“This gift will help us transform the facility into a library of the future that will provide spaces for learning and interdisciplinary collaboration, not only to the students of today, but for the generations to come,” said Wentworth president Zorica Pantic.

Jim Kolb, STV|DPM, vice president, and Tim Singleton, senior project manager, are leading the project team. Together, they’re working with Wentworth’s oversight committee, the Division of Technology Services, library and facilities staff, students, and faculty. The mission is to create a new space that will accommodate 760 seats, while incorporating Wentworth’s vision of enhanced library learning, technology, research and collaboration.

The project is expected to be completed in the summer of 2016.
